Comments:	Ch. 938 also allows a caseworker to take a juvenile into custody and hold the juvenile for 72 hours without a hearing while investigating an alleged violation of the dispositional order. As with sanctions, this fact must be explained to the juvenile in court or the juvenile must acknowledge an understanding of that authority in writing. This form accomplishes that objective, as well. It should be noted that the caseworker-hold provisions are subject to "policies adopted by the county board relating to the taking into custody and placement of juveniles under this subsection [§938.355(6d)]. Each county which wishes to utilize the 72-hour custody hold should immediately seek the appropriate county board resolution. A county board may limit the use of this section by caseworkers, presumably for fiscal or other reasons.
